

BC HIGH

Social Compact

We would like to stress that the health of our community is entirely dependent upon responsible personal behavior by all of our members. At BC High, we have gone to great lengths to layer multiple mitigation strategies. We have outlined these expectations on our reopening page, located here.

For these strategies to be effective, our students, faculty and staff, and families must consistently adhere to personal behaviors outside of school that reflect best practices for limiting the spread of infection. These best practices include the unfailing use of masks, keeping physically distant (six feet or more) from those outside your family or designated group, frequent and thorough hand washing, limited travel, and strict avoidance of all large gatherings.

We must work together; as a school, we cannot be the enforcers of best practices off-campus. We do, however, expect that if you want your student to learn on-campus, you will consistently observe the best practices recommended by the CDC.

Prioritizing the health and safety of our community begins with respect. As a Jesuit school, relationship and care is at our heart. We know our students and adults thrive when they are valued, cared for, and respected. Cura Personalis (care for each individual across each of their dimensions) is the core tenet of a Jesuit formation. Context is the starting point of that formation. During this uniquely challenging context, we are confident that we will be united in our commitment to caring for each other and preserving the safety of every individual in our community.
